President's Message

My fellow Long Beach Homebrewers,

As the temperature starts to turn cold, or at least it is supposed to, celebrations are starting to unfold. A few weeks ago, Teela and I hosted a Halloween party at our house to show off our new back yard and the entire club was invited to attend to help us celebrate. The party kicked off at 6pm on October 24th, with a potluck style dinner and a costume contest later that night. There were several categories of costumes that were voted on: Funniest, Most Original, and Best Overall. There were several costumes that could have won any of the 3 categories, but here are the winners. The funniest costume went to "Good in the Sack"; Most Original went to "Penisourous"; and best overall was split between "The Flintstones".

Website Updates

By Jon Silvertooth

As some of you know, I have taken over maintaining the club website (<http://www.longbeachhomebrewers.com>), so I wanted to share some of the changes that have been made in the past few months.

1. The styles of the month for 2015 have been chosen and posted to the site. Come take a look to see what we'll be doing in our upcoming 2015 meetings and prepare for the 2015 Homebrewer of the Year competition.

2. We have added a new area on the site named "Competition Central". This area has listings for all of the upcoming local homebrew competitions and relevant information for each (cost per entry, closest drop-off location, official site for registration, etc...). In addition to listing upcoming competitions, we'll be keeping track of and giving a shout out to members who place in these competitions. This is just for fun and bragging rights, and we hope everyone enjoys seeing how club members are doing in local competitions.
